Love

1. Love gives naught but itself and takes naught but from itself.
Love possesses not nor would it be possessed;
For love
Kahlil Gibran
2. Give a little love to a child, and you get a great deal back.
John Ruskin
3. I do not love him because he is good, but because he is my little child.
Rabindranath Tagore
4. The magic of first love is our ignorance that it can ever end.
Benjamin Disraeli
5. You know you re in love when you stop comparing.
Mason Cooley
6. Do you want me to tell you something really subversive? Love is everything it s cracked up to be. That's why people are so cynical about it.... It really is worth fighting for, being brave for, risking everything for. And the trouble is, if you don't risk anything, you risk even more.
Erica Jong
7. How silver-sweet sound lovers tongues by night,
Like softest music to attending ears
William Shakespeare
8. Were you the earth, dear Love, and I the skies,
My love should shine on you like to the Sun,
And look upon you with ten thousand eyes,
Till heaven wax d blind, and till the world were done.
Whereso'er I am, below, or else above you
Whereso'er you are, my heart shall truly love you.
Joshua Sylvester
9. How else can I explain those rainbows when there is no rain, it s magic.
Sammy Cahn

10. Love is a binding force, by which another is joined to me and cherished by myself.
Thomas Aquinas
11. Thou art my life, my love, my heart,
The very eyes of me:
And hast command of every part
To live and die for thee.
Robert Herrick
12. Love is the perfect sum
Of all delight
Tobias Hume
13. If I place love above everything, it is because for me it is the most desperate, the most despairing state of affairs imaginable.
André Breton
14. And we are put on earth a little space,
That we may learn to bear the beams of love
William Blake
15. We can only learn to love by loving.
Iris Murdoch
16. My bounty is as boundless as the sea,
My love as deep. The more I give to thee
The more I have, for both are infinite.
William Shakespeare
17. In love as in art, good technique helps.
Mason Cooley
18. Love is not enough. It must be the foundation, the cornerstone but not the complete structure. It is much too pliable, too yielding.
Bette Davis

Knowledge

19. A little knowledge that acts is worth infinitely more than much knowledge that is idle.
Kahlil Gibran
20. Whenever a person strives, by the help of dialectic, to start in pursuit of every reality by a simple process of reason, independent of all sensuous information never flinching, until by an act of the pure intelligence he has grasped the real nature of good he arrives at the very end of the intellectual world.

Plato

21. Once and for all, there are many things I choose not to know. Wisdom sets limits even to knowledge.

Friedrich Nietzsche

22. Opinions are not to be learned by rote, like the letters of an alphabet, or the words of a dictionary. They are conclusions to be formed, and formed by each individual in the sacred and free citadel of the mind, and there enshrined beyond the arm of law to reach, or force to shake; ay! and beyond the right of impertinent curiosity to violate, or presumptuous arrogance to threaten.

Frances Wright

23. All men by nature desire knowledge.

Aristotle

24. All knowledge is ambiguous.

J.S. Habgood

25. Knowledge is happiness, because to have knowledge broad, deep knowledge is to know true ends from false, and lofty things from low. To know the thoughts and deeds that have marked man's progress is to feel the great heart-throbs of humanity through the centuries; and if one does not feel in these pulsations a heavenward striving, one must indeed be deaf to the harmonies of life.

Helen Keller

26. Only with the ultimate knowledge of all things will man have come to know himself. For things are but the boundaries of man.

Friedrich Nietzsche

27. Knowledge about life is one thing; effective occupation of a place in life, with its dynamic currents passing through your being, is another.

William James

28. There can be no knowledge without emotion. We may be aware of a truth, yet until we have felt its force, it is not ours. To the cognition of the brain must be added the experience of the soul.

Arnold Bennett

29. Consciousness is the perception of what passes in a man's own mind. Can another man perceive that I am conscious of any thing, when I perceive it not myself? No man's knowledge here can go beyond his experience.

John Locke

30. To know yet to think that one does not know is best; Not to know yet to think that one knows will lead to difficulty.

Lao-Tzu

31. There are only two kinds of people who are really fascinating people who know absolutely everything, and people who know absolutely nothing.
Oscar Wilde
32. I had therefore to remove knowledge, in order to make room for belief.
Immanuel Kant
33. To help, to continually help and share, that is the sum of all knowledge; that is the meaning of art.
Eleonora Duse
34. There has always been the same amount of light in the world. The new and missing stars, the comets and eclipses, do not affect the general illumination, for only our glasses appreciate them.
Henry David Thoreau
35. The only mode of obtaining an answer to these questions of the senses is to forego all low curiosity, and, accepting the tide of being which floats us into the secret of nature, work and live, work and live, and all unawares the advancing soul has built and forged for itself a new condition, and the question and the answer are one.
Ralph Waldo Emerson
36. Know thyself.
Delphic Oracle.
37. It's been my experience that every time I think I know where it's at, it's usually somewhere else.
Blake Edwards
38. What we learn for the sake of knowing, we hold; what we learn for the sake of accomplishing some ulterior end, we forget as soon as that end has been gained. This, too, is automatic action in the constitution of the mind itself, and it is fortunate and merciful that it is so, for otherwise our minds would be soon only rubbish-room's.
Anna C. Brackett
39. Interpretation is the evidence of growth and knowledge, the latter through sorrow that great teacher.
Eleonora Duse
40. We are not put into the world to sit still and know; we are put into it to act.
Woodrow Wilson
41. Knowledge does not come to us by details, but in flashes of light from heaven.
Henry David Thoreau

42. All men by nature desire to know.
Aristotle
43. Objectivity requires taking subjectivity into account.
Lorraine Code
44. It is easy to see, though it scarcely needs to be pointed out, since it is involved in the fact that Reason is set aside, that faith is not a form of knowledge; for all knowledge is either a knowledge of the eternal, excluding the temporal and historical as indifferent, or it is pure historical knowledge. No knowledge can have for its object the absurdity that the eternal is the historical.
Soren Kierkegaard
45. The tree of knowledge is not the tree of life! And yet can we cast out of our spirits all the good or evil poured into them by so many learned generations? Ignorance cannot be learned.
Gérard De Nerval
46. We take the opinions and the knowledge of others into our keeping, and that is all. We must make them our own.
Michel de Montaigne
47. I was curious, I was avid to know only what I found more real than myself, that which allowed me to glimpse the thoughts of a great genius, or the force or grace of nature left to its own devices, without the intervention of man.
Marcel Proust
48. We learn about life not from plusses alone, but from minuses as well.
Anton Pavlovich Chekhov
49. How can one learn to know oneself? Never by introspection, rather by action. Try to do your duty, and you will know right away what you are like.
Johann Wolfgang von Goethe
50. ... men know best about everything, except what women know better.
George Eliot [Mary Ann (or Marian) Evans]
51. We assume a common sense as the necessary condition of the universal communicability of our knowledge, which is presupposed in every logic and every principle of knowledge that is not one of skepticism.
Immanuel Kant
52. It is up to my spirit to find the truth. But how? Grave uncertainty, each time the spirit feels beyond its own comprehension; when it, the explorer, is altogether to obscure land that it must search and where all its baggage is of no use. To search? That is not all: to create.

Marcel Proust

53. Instruct me then; I should not speak without due thought.

Sophocles

Happiness

54. If you want others to be happy, practice compassion.

The 14th Dalai Lama

55. Happiness does not notice the passing of time.

Chinese proverb

56. Happiness is an imaginary condition, formerly often attributed by the living to the dead, now usually attributed by adults to children, and by children to adults.

Thomas Szasz

57. Happiness does not await us all. One needn't be a prophet to say that there will be more grief and pain than serenity and money. That is why we must hang on to one another.

Anton Pavlovich Chekhov

58. The happiness of the body consists in the possession of health; that of the mind, in being sensible of that blessing.

Anonymous

59. Remember this -- very little is needed to make a happy life.

Marcus Aurelius

60. A mother's happiness is like a beacon, lighting up the future but reflected also on the past in the guise of fond memories.

Honoré De Balzac

61. In the midst of happiness, one may not appreciate what happiness is.

Chinese proverb

62. The welfare, the happiness, the energy and spirit of the men and women who do the daily work ... is the underlying necessity of all prosperity.... There can be nothing wholesome unless their life is wholesome; there can be no contentment unless they are contented.

Woodrow Wilson

63. I try to forget what happiness was, and when that don't work, I study the stars.

Derek Walcott

64. But does not happiness come from the soul within?
Honoré De Balzac
65. Your children and grandchildren will have their share of happiness; there s no need to work a like a horse for them.
Chinese proverb
66. The hour when you say, What does my happiness matter? It is poverty and filth, and a wretched complacency. Yet my happiness should justify existence itself!
Friedrich Nietzsche
67. It is in the love of one s family only that heartfelt happiness is known.
Thomas Jefferson
68. The earthly paradise is where I am.
Voltaire
69. If our condition were truly happy, we would not need diversion from thinking of it in order to make ourselves happy.
Blaise Pascal
70. To me it seems that to give happiness is a far nobler goal than to attain it: and that what we exist for is much more a matter of relations to others than a matter of individual progress: much more a matter of helping others to heaven than of getting there ourselves.
Lewis Carroll [Charles Lutwidge Dodgson]
71. The present is never our end. The past and present are our means; the future alone is our end. So we never live, but hope to live; and, as we are always preparing to be happy, it is inevitable that we should never be so.
Blaise Pascal

Peace

72. First there must be order and harmony within your own mind. Then this order will spread to your family, then to the community, and finally to your entire kingdom. Only then can you have peace and harmony.
Confucius
73. In peace the sons bury their fathers, but in war the fathers bury their sons.
Croesus
74. The superior person can find peace in poverty; the philosophical mind accepts the will of Heaven.
Chinese proverb

75. He who knows patience knows peace.
Chinese proverb
76. Sometimes the best way to keep peace in the family is to keep the members of the family apart for awhile.
Franklin D. Roosevelt
77. The world can be at peace only if the world is stable, and there can be no stability where the will is in rebellion, where there is not tranquility of spirit and a sense of justice, of freedom, and of right.
Woodrow Wilson
78. Only the person who has experienced light and darkness, war and peace, rise and fall, only that person has truly experienced life.
Stefan Zweig
79. In the whole round of human affairs little is so fatal to peace as misunderstanding.
Margaret E. Sangster
80. Prayer is not an old woman's idle amusement. Properly understood and applied, it is the most potent instrument of action.
Mohandas K. Gandhi
81. It is easy enough to be friendly to one's friends. But to befriend the one who regards himself as your enemy is the quintessence of true religion. The other is mere business.
Mohandas K. Gandhi
82. We know not what it is, dear, this sleep so deep and still;
The folded hands, the awful calm, the cheek so pale and chill;
The lids that will not lift again, though we may call and call;
The strange white solitude of peace that settles over all.
Mary Mapes Dodge
83. I assert that the first, and fundamental right of every woman is to be allowed the free exercise of her own belief; and that free exercise is not allowed when she is in any way restrained either morally or intellectually.
Margaret Anna Cusack
84. But tell me: how did gold get to be the highest value? Because it is uncommon and useless and gleaming and gentle in its brilliance; it always gives itself. Only as an image of the highest virtue did gold get to be the highest value. The giver's glance gleams like gold. A golden brilliance concludes peace between the moon and the sun. Uncommon is the highest virtue and useless, it is gleaming and gentle in its brilliance: a gift-giving virtue is the highest virtue.
Friedrich Nietzsche

Inspiration

85. If we fail to nourish our souls, they wither, and without soul, life ceases to have meaning. The creative process shrivels in the absence of continual dialogue with the soul. And creativity is what makes life worth living.
Marion Woodman
86. Let us do our utmost and leave the rest for Heaven.
Chinese proverb
87. Personal example carries more weight than preaching.
Chinese proverb
88. The excessive increase of anything often causes a reaction in the opposite direction.
Plato
89. If you aim for the moon, even if you miss, you'll still land among the stars.
John Olson
90. When you see the abyss, and we have looked into it, then what? There isn't much room at the edge one person, another, not many. If you are there, others cannot be there. If you are there, you become a protective wall. What happens? You become part of the abyss.
Elie Wiesel
91. Don't cry because it's over, smile because it happened.
Unknown
92. All that we are is the result of what we have thought: it is founded on our thoughts, it is made up of our thoughts. If a man speaks or acts with an evil thought, pain follows him, as the wheel follows the foot of the ox that draws the carriage. All that we are is the result of what we have thought: it is founded on our thoughts, it is made up of our thoughts. If a man speaks or acts with a pure thought, happiness follows him, like a shadow that never leaves him.
Dhammapada V. 1-2
93. Let a man overcome anger by love, let him overcome evil by good; let him overcome the greedy by liberality, the liar by truth! Speak the truth, do not yield to anger; give, if thou art asked for little; by these three steps thou wilt go near the gods.
Dhammapada V. 223-224
94. No man was ever yet a great poet, without being at the same time a profound philosopher. For poetry is the blossom and the fragrancy of all human knowledge, human thoughts, human passions, emotions, language.
Samuel Taylor Coleridge

95. If you are pained by external things, it is not they that disturb you, but your own judgment of them. And it is in your power to wipe out that judgment now.
Marcus Aurelius
96. Silence is a great help to a seeker after truth. In the attitude of silence the soul finds the path in a clearer light and what is elusive and deceptive resolves itself into crystal clearness. Our life is a long and arduous quest after Truth, and the soul requires inward restfulness to attain its full height.
Mohandas K. Gandhi
97. By three methods we may learn wisdom: First, by reflection, which is noblest; Second, by imitation, which is easiest; and third by experience, which is the bitterest.
Confucius
98. Love thy neighbor as thyself: Do not do to others what thou wouldst not wish be done to thyself: Forgive injuries. Forgive thy enemy, be reconciled to him, give him assistance, invoke God in his behalf.
Confucius
99. When one door closes another door opens; but we so often look so long and so regretfully upon the closed door, that we do not see the ones which open for us.
Alexander Graham Bell
100. Acquire the courage to believe in yourself. Many of the things that you have been taught were at one time the radical ideas of individuals who had the courage to believe what their own hearts and minds told them was true, rather than accept the common beliefs of their day.
Ching Ning Chu
101. The reason birds can fly and we can't is simply that they have perfect faith, for to have faith is to have wings.
Sir James Matthew Barrie

Relationship

102. Love your enemies. It really pisses them off!
Unknown
103. It is not how much we do, but how much love we put in the doing. It is not how much we give, but how much love we put in the giving.
Mother Teresa
104. Life without love is like a tree without blossom and fruit.
Kahlil Gibran

105. One word frees us of all the weight and pain of life: that word is love.
Sophocles
106. If you love the good that you see in another, you make it your own.
Saint Gregory The Great
107. Love is space and time measured by the heart.
Marcel Proust
108. Pure love and suspicion cannot dwell together: at the door where the latter enters, the former makes its exit.
Alexandre Dumas
109. By all means marry. If you get a good wife you will become happy, and if you get a bad one you will become a philosopher.
Socrates
110. Fifty years from now it will not matter what kind of car you drove, what kind of house you lived in, how much you had in your bank account, or what your clothes looked like. But the world may be a little better because you were important in the life of a child.
Anonymous
111. Accept the things to which fate binds you, and love the people with whom fate brings you together, but do so with all your heart.

Friendship

112. Friendship is a single soul living in two bodies.
Aristotle
113. The only reward of virtue is virtue; the only way to have a friend is to be one.
Ralph Waldo Emerson
114. Friendship is one mind in two bodies.
Mencius
115. Gems may be precious, but friends are priceless.
Unknown
116. The more we love our friends, the less we flatter them; it is by excusing nothing that pure love shows itself.
Moliere

117. The better part of one's life consists of his friendships.
Abraham Lincoln
118. The greatest good you can do for another is not just share your riches, but to reveal to him, his own.
Benjamin Disraeli
119. Thus nature has no love for solitude, and always leans, as it were, on some support; and the sweetest support is found in the most intimate friendship.
Cicero
120. No soul is desolate as long as there is a human being for whom it can feel trust and reverence.
George Eliot [Mary Ann (or Marian) Evans]
121. Friendship is always a sweet responsibility, never an opportunity.
Kahlil Gibran
122. A simple friend thinks the friendship over when you have an argument. A real friend knows that it's not a friendship until after you've had a fight
Unknown
123. Am I not destroying my enemies when I make friends of them?
Abraham Lincoln
124. Treat people as if they were what they ought to be, and you help them to become what they are capable of being.
Johann Wolfgang von Goethe
125. Friendship is the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person, having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words.
George Eliot [Mary Ann (or Marian) Evans]
126. Do not walk in front of me I may not follow. Do not walk behind me I may not lead. Just walk beside me and be my friend.
Albert Camus
127. Friendship improves happiness and abates misery, by the doubling of our joy and the dividing of our grief
Marcus Tullius Cicero
128. A friend is a person who knows all about you and still loves you just the same.
Unknown
129. No act of kindness, no matter how small, is ever wasted.
Aesop

130. It is one of the most beautiful compensations of this life that no man can sincerely try to help another without helping himself.
Ralph Waldo Emerson

Biblical

131. The peace of God, which passeth all understanding.
Bible: New Testament St. Paul, in Philippians, 4:7.
132. Whatever house you enter, first say, Peace to this house! And if anyone is there who shares in peace, your peace will rest on that person; but if not, it will return to you.
Bible: New Testament, Luke 10:5,6.
133. There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked.
Bible: Hebrew Isaiah, 48:22.
134. God said to Moses, "I AM WHO I AM."
Exodus 3:14
135. Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour. For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up.
Ecclesiastes
136. Ask, and it will be given you; search, and you will find; knock, and the door will be opened for you.
Bible: New Testament, Matthew 7.7.
137. So do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will bring worries of its own. Today's trouble is enough for today.
Bible: New Testament, Matthew 6:34.
138. The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.
Bible: Hebrew Psalm XXIII (l. XXIII, 1 6).
139. One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth for ever. The sun also ariseth, and the sun goeth down, and hasteth to the place where he arose.

Bible: Hebrew Ecclesiastes 1:4,5.

140. To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven: a time to be born and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted; a time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up; a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn and a time to dance; a time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing; a time to get, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away; a time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep silence, and a time to speak; a time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace.

Bible: Hebrew Ecclesiastes 3:1-8.

141. This is my commandment, that ye love one another.

Bible: New Testament Jesus, in John 15:12

142. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control.

Galatians 5:22-23

143. It is possible to give away and become richer! It is also possible to hold on too tightly and lose everything. Yes, the liberal man shall be rich! By watering others, he waters himself.

Proverbs 11:24-25

Decision Making

144. I always like to look on the optimistic side of life, but I am realistic enough to know that life is a complex matter.

Walt Disney

145. Keep it simple, stupid. Every decision you make is a mistake.

Edward Dahlberg

146. For every complex problem there is an answer that is clear, simple, and wrong.

H L Mencken

147. The only man who never makes a mistake is the man who never does anything.

Theodore Roosevelt

148. More can be learned from what works than from what fails.

Rene Dubois

149. Our business in life is not to succeed, but to continue to fail in good spirits.
Robert Louis Stephenson
150. May you live in interesting times.
Chinese curse
151. Only one thing is certain - that is, nothing is certain. If this statement is true, it is also false.
Ancient Paradox
152. Even if you're on the right track, you'll get run over if you just sit there.
Will Rogers
153. Behold the turtle, he makes progress only when he sticks his neck out.
Anonymous
154. There is nothing more frightful than ignorance in action.
Goethe
155. Nothing is more terrible than activity without insight.
Thomas Carlyle
156. A moment's insight is sometimes worth a life's experience.
Oliver Wendell Holmes
157. Thinking is the hardest work there is, which is probably the reason why so few engage in it.
Henry Ford
158. If everyone is thinking alike, then somebody isn't thinking.
George Patton
159. If you find a good solution and become attached to it, the solution may become your next problem.
Robert Anthony
160. Planning without action is futile, action without planning is fatal
Unknown
161. If a man will begin with certainties he shall end in doubts; but if he will be content to begin with doubts he shall end in certainties.
Francis Bacon
162. Confidence is what you feel before you comprehend the situation.
Proverb
